This results from a conference held at the Waldorf June 22 by Mr. Hays and representatives of about 100 civic, religious, educational and welfare organizations. Through Col. Joy these organizations will cooperate with the motion picture people. He is to keep the organizations he represents informed of the constructive work being done by producers and distributors looking toward improvement in quality and standards of pictures and, on the other hand, is to keep Mr. Hays informed of the aims and activities of the organizations.

Funnier than the Movies

Every movie fan will enjoy "Lights Out" with what The New York Herald calls its "ingenious story." Here is a snappy play with a brand-new idea, having for chief characters a scenario writer and a great crook who work together on a serial. "Was it a success? A sensation!" says Charles Darnton in The Evening World. "Lights Out' turned outto be funnier than a movie and quite as thrilling."

With untold wealth within your grasp; with gems and jewels of value rare; with a mountain of gold to fulfill your every wish—what else in all the world could you desire; one thing only—LOVE.

With all his millions, the Count of Monte Cristo lacked Love. His sweetheart torn from his arms on his bridal day, enemies thrust him into prison. How he escaped; how he obtained fabulous wealth; how he punished his enemies and then won again the love which he thought he had lost forever—that is the story of "The Count of Monte Cristo", one of the greatest screen spectacles ever presented.
